

	Panel	Speaker	Room
8:30- 9:00		Registration & Coffe	Student Union Second Floor
9:00 – 9:30	Introduction	Provost Holloway Director, OCE Tim Castillo	Lobo A&B
9:30 –11:00	Panel 1 Building a Coherent Office of Outreach and Engagement Moderator: Tim B. Castillo (University of New Mexico) The panel will bring together leaders in Community Engagement from the University of New Mexico, University of Arizona, Texas Tech University, and the University of Texas at El Paso to explore their engagement and impact on communities throughout the region. As these institutions hold the Carnegie Classification of being Research 1 as well as Hispanic Serving Institutions, the panelists will discuss the diversity of the communities they serve and share insights on developing best practices for future engagements. Together they	Rebecca Sánchez, Associate Dean for Equity, Inclusion and Faculty Affairs [UNM], Jenna M. Lujan, Director, Center for Community Engagement [University of Texas at El Paso], Rod N. Williams, Vice Provost for Outreach & Engagement, [Texas Tech], Jeanne McDonald, Associate Director Office for Public and Community-Engaged Scholarship [University of Colorado], Jennifer Hatcher, Vice Provost & Chief Inclusion Officer [U of A]	Lobo A&B
11:30-12:30	UNM-Community Engagement Academy Discussion	Work Groups: CE Academy:Nina Wallerstein, Distinguished Professor, Director, Center for Participatory Research	Santa Ana A&B
12:30 - 1:00	Lunch Break [By Invitation]	Tables: Vendors Centers & Institutions	Foyer
1:00 – 2:00	Keynote speaker: The Power of Collective Action Work: Breaking Down Barriers in Community Engagement Using Lessons Learned from the Carnegie Classification	Introduction-UNM President Stokes Cammie Jones Friedrichs, Dir. Carnegie Community Engagement	Lobo A & B
2:00 – 2:15		Coffee break	Foyer
2:15 – 3:30	Panel 2: Why Carnegie? Leveraging the Carnegie Community Engagement Classification Moderator: Cammie Jones-Friedrichs The Carnegie Community Engagement Classification is a prestigious designation, yet its true value and strategic potential are not always fully appreciated. In this panel, Cammie Jones, Director of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, will explore the significance of this classification and its role in enhancing community engagement at institutions. She will share insights on how universities can strategically leverage the Carnegie Classification to align their engagement practices with broader institutional goals, maximize their impact, and address existing challenges.	Nina Wallerstein, Distinguished Professor, Director, Center for Participatory Research [UNM], Jenna M. Lujan, Director, Center for Community Engagement [University of Texas at El Paso], Rod N. Williams, Vice Provost for Outreach & Engagement, [Texas Tech], Jeanne McDonald, Associate Director Office for Public and Community-Engaged Scholarship [University of Colorado], Jennifer Hatcher, Vice Provost & Chief Inclusion Officer [U of A]	Lobo A & B
3:30 – 4:00		Coffee break

4:00 – 5:00	Panel 3: Tenure and Promotion for Engaged Scholarship Moderator: Renia Ehrenfeucht (University of New Mexico) Community engagement scholars often encounter substantial challenges in the tenure and promotion process within higher education. While there is increasing recognition of the value of civic involvement, traditional academic metrics still prioritize research output and publications, often sidelining community-based scholarship. This results in a lack of clear criteria for assessing the impact and significance of community engagement initiatives. This panel will examine the vital role that tenure and promotion policies play in	Manuel Montoya, Associate Professor [UNM], Jenna M. Lujan, Director, Center for Community Engagement [University of Texas at El Paso], Ersela Kripa, Associate Vice Provost for Outreach and Engagement, [Texas Tech], Jeanne McDonald, Associate Director Office for Public and Community-Engaged Scholarship [University of Colorado], Jennifer Hatcher, Vice Provost & Chief Inclusion Officer [U of A]	Lobo A & B
5:00 – 5:30	Closing remarks	Tim B. Castillo	Lobo A & B
5:30-6:30	Reception		Sub Main floor

